Raideretts split contests

The Appomattox varsity Raiderettes fell in a close game against Brookville Friday, after compiling their eleventh season win Tuesday at home against Altavista.

Against Altavista the Raiderettes got off to a slow start and trailed at the end of the first quarter, 10-8. Then Coach Mary Tolley instituted a half-court press, and the local girls rallied for 17 points while holding Altavista to six, and the first half ended at 25-16, Appomattox.

The game was never really close after that, with Appomattox scoring 12 points in the third quarter to Altavista's seven, and then points in the final period to eight for Altavists. Final score was 47-31, Appomattox.

Ruby Smith ran up 29 points to lead Raiderette scorers, followed by Lolita Preston with six points, Rhonda Jaggars with four points, Cheryl Williams with three points, Susan Handy and Robin Martin with two points each, and Robin Paulette with one point.

The Raiderettes gathered in 32 rebounds, including nine by Smith and eight by Johnson. Preston, Handy, Johnson, Martin, Smith, and Murray all had assists. Preston also recorded four steals, Smith three, Johnson two, and Martin one in the Altavista game.

"We've been a little sluggish on offensive movement, and on getting the ball on defense, lately," Coach Tolley said this week.

She noted that the girls have been affected by the flu and a state of "general tiredness." But, she added, "We're still winning, and it's hard to complain when you look bad and still win."

Friday night against Brookville, the Raiderette magic wore off long enough to allow the Lady Bees to escape with a 47-45 victory.

The game was marred by a series of controversial calls by the referees, which resulted in Brookville gaining four points, while the Raiderettes had two taken off the board.

The Raiderettes jumped out into an early lead in the first quarter, which ended 14-8, Appomattox. In the second quarter, however, Brookville controlled the Raiderettes, scoring 14 points to the local girls' five. Lolita Preston made a half-court jumper at the first-half buzzer to bring the Raiderettes to within three points as the first half ended.

In the third quarter, the Raiderettes were again outscored, 19-12, and during that quarter the referees made the controversial call which cost the Raiderettes two points off the score board.

The call involved an illegal shot by Raiderette Ruby Smith which was at first counted as good. Then, several plays after the game resumed, the points were taken off the board, after protest from the Brookville coach.

The Raiderettes fought back in the final period of play, outscoring Brookville 14-6, but the rally was not enough to overcome the deficit built during the second and third quarters.

Smith again led Raiderette scorers with 17 points, followed by Susan Handy and Rhonda Jaggars with nine points each, Karen Johnson and Lolita Preston with four points each, and Robin Martin with two points.

"Brookville played a good game, and it was close all the way," said Coach Tolley after the game. She noted that Smith and Preston got into foul trouble early in the game, which had an effect on the Raiderette pressure game.

The Raiderettes, with an 11-4 record and tied for second place in the Seminole District after last week, were scheduled to play district-leading Liberty Tuesday after the TIMES VIRGINIAN deadline.

Friday, the girls will travel to Buckingham, and next Tuesday night the girls will close their regular season against Rustburg at home.

The district tournament begins the following Friday, February 20, at E.C. Glass High School in Lynchburg.

Scouts roll

The Wolf Patrol from Boy Scout Troop 546 in Appomattox won a coveted merit award by placing among the winners in the annual Klondike Derby last Saturday. The local Scouts competed with 275 other Scouts representing 27 troops in the Central and Seminole Districts of the Blue Ridge Council.

The day-long Scouting skills competition was held on property belonging to Westvaco Corporation on the Campbell - Bedford County line near Evington, along Buffalo Creek. Scoutmaster Allen Harville of Appomattox had 8 of his Boy Scouts competing with 36 other patrols over the grueling 5 mile course.

Each patrol builds an Alaskan style huskey sled and then packs the sled with the gear necessary for the Scouting skills competition events. The boys then pull the sleds around a scheduled course, stopping to compete for "gold nuggets" at nine locations bearing Alaskan named such as Kodiak, Anchorage and Polar Cove. The 4 patrols who accumulate the most nuggets win camping gear prizes. This year, lacking snow, the Scouts had a tough time maneuvering their loaded sleds over the muddy field and forest trails. Bob Dixon, Klondike Derby Chairman, commented that the lack of snow did not diminish the spirits of the Scouts in this years competition. Dixon, who is also Westvaco's Virginia Woodlands Technical Superintendent in Appomattox, noted that this was the largest turnout in recent years that he had conducted the Derby. "The event is designed to be a learning experience for the boys," he continued, "they not only test their Scouting skills in simmulated real life situations, but in the process also learn new skills and how to be better prepared." Not all groups complete the entire course. To be winners, a high degree of teamwork, spirit, and effort must be demonstrated by the patrols. The Appomattox Scouts certainly demonstrated these attributes by placing in the top four. The skills tested at the various competition sites include emergency and survival situations in first aid, fire building, knot typing, rope rescue, and using map and compass. Other outdoor skills tested are axe and saw safety, tree identification, pancake flipping and camp set up.

Westvaco hosts this event by providing the site and some of the prizes, which include a cooler, camp grill, bow saw, and camp utensil kit, to the top winning patrols. The tract of land where the Derby is held is managed under the multiple (continued on page 13)

Raiders defeat Altavista

The Appomattox Varsity Raiders dropped Altavista last Tuesday, then fell 52-45 to Brookville in Friday evening's basketball game.

Shane Abernathy, with 22 points, led all scorers in Tuesday's game against Altavista, which saw the Raiders stage a strong second-half comeback after going into the lockerroom behind 28-26 at the half. Abernathy's performance was followed closely by Marvin Johnson's, who scored 15 points, Jeff Miller with six, Rick Caldwell with four, Jody Williams with two and Ron Carter with two.

The Raiders fell behind by four at the end of the first quarter, which ended 12-8, favor of Altavista. In the second period of play, the Raiders scored 18 points to Altavista's 16, to move to within two points of Altavista as the half ended.

Then the Raiders exploded for 16 in the third period, while almost completely shutting down Altavista, which had but four points in the entire period. In the final period of play, the Raiders reeled off 19 points, as did Altavista, and the game ended 61-51, favor of Appomattox.

Coach Coty Dickerson commended Shane Abernathy for his 8 points second half, and Marvin Johnson, who "did a good job of getting the ball down low inside to Shane."

The Raiders hit 22 of 45 field goals for a 48.9 percent performance from the floor and hit on 17 of 26 freethrows for a 65.4 percent performance from the foul line.

The Brookville game was "our worst of the year," Dickerson said of the contest.

"We were really flat the first half," Dickerson said. The Raiders were behind 11-7 as the first period ended, and trailed 28-18 as the first half ended.

In the third quarter, the Raiders fought back and scored 14 points to Brookville's eight, at one point tying the score. But back-to-back turnovers broke the Raiders' momentum, and the local team was unable to catch Brookville in the final quarter.

Ferguson and Abernathy each scored 13 points for the Raiders, Miller scored seven, Rick Caldwell scored six, Marvin Johnson scored four, and Richard Guill scored two.

The Raiders went 13 for 20 from the foul line and hit 16 field goals for the evening. Brookville hit on 12 of 18 foul shots, and dropped 20 field goals in for the night.

The Raiders were scheduled to face Liberty at home Tuesday after the Times-Virginian deadline. This Friday evening, they will travel to Buckingham, and next Tuesday they will end their season at-home with a game against Rustburg. Game time is 8 p.m. each night.

Vicki Glover gets experience

Vicki L. Glover of Pamplin, a government/history student at Longwood College, is currently doing ten weeks of classroom teaching in a Virgina Public school.

As a teacher-trainee, she is under the direction of a local teacher and a Longwood faculty member from her major area of study. In addition, supervisors from the college's department of education make frequent visits to the area of student teaching.

Starting February 1st we're giving drivers like Joe Wertz a well-deserved reward.

After 48 years and thousands of miles of accident-free driving, Joe Wertz has established a record he can be proud of.

And starting February 1st, Joe and thousands of our auto insurance holders will benefit from an expanded rating system. This should assure fairer premiums for everyone. And in many cases will mean lower premiums, especially for low risk drivers.

We're pleased to introduce this rating system as part of a continuing effort to provide the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.
